All right bend the knees straighten the elbows and... oh hi there folks. Mr Progressor here just getting a few strokes in trying to perfect my game, you know. Today I want to talk to you about Shamir's newest freeform progressive lens made to help your golf game and lower your handicap. It's called Shamir Golf and it was made just for you-- that is, if you're a golfer. If you're like me when you're out there on the links you probably need a little more help than your putter can give you, so once again those darn Shamir scientists went at it poking, prodding, researching, and studying eye movements of hundreds of golfers and came out with this genius lens that gives you perfect vision in the three zones golfers care most about while playing a typical round. I'm talking scorecard, ball, and green. Let me explain. You see this ingenious golf lens's got a super clear near zone for up close vision so you can see real good when you're cheating-- I mean filling out your scorecard. Then it's got a stable mid-range zone for looking at the ball down by your feet. And it's got a big old wide clear distance zone for seeing that green far away. Let's hope you can hit them that far though. Since these three places are where golfers spend most of their time looking, this fancy pants lens is perfect for any golfer-- from the hackers like me to the season Pros like my cousin chippy. And shoot I almost forgot about the peripheral zone. You see golfers use their peripheral vision to look at where they're going to hit the ball before they actually swing. Four! So the folks down at Shamir made sure the peripheral zone is clear and distortion-free too. Heck, now golfers ain't got no excuses for being eight Strokes over par. And if that wasn't enough these Shamir golf lenses are personalized for each golfer, too. Now that's a fancy word so let me explain. You see these lenses are measured to how you wear your frames on your face, then those calculations are plugged into the prescriptor and poof out comes a lens made just for the kind of golfer you are. Perfect vision from tee to Green. [Yodel sounds]Hey!

that sounds pretty good maybe they should use that as their slogan. I'm telling you they don't pay me enough. Well, I'm out of here folks remember every golfer needs a good caddy and a really good pair of lenses to see where they're hitting that ball [crash sound]. Well I'll be. Look at what those darn Shamir golf lenses can do. See you on the green.
